Console Jockey Initial Public Offering

Much-anticipated Console Jockey goes public and gets brown-nosed by investors.

AUSTIN, TX - March 10, 2002 - Console Jockey, Inc., the company that is a tribute to the best company in the world, went public today amid storms of international press announced the chief investment company, Terminal Tightly-Whitey Ventures.

"Console Jockey is the hottest stock out there. I would recommend a strong buy."

"El Jinete de la Consola es la terraja más caliente hacia fuera allí. Recomendaría una compra fuerte."

"Konsole Jockey ist der heißeste Vorrat heraus dort. Ich würde einen starken kauf empfehlen."

"Le Jockey de Console est les provisions les plus chaudes dehors là. Je recommanderais un achat fort."

The stock quickly sky-rocketed from a buck-fifty to well over 3,000 dollars in the first 30 minutes and settled at $2,543.82 (before closing around 32 cents). Each share was flipped at least fifteen times. Console Jockey laid off approximately 700 employees shortly after the public realized that certain technology invention claims (such as the Internet) had been fabricated.

More information regarding Console Jockey, Inc. is available on its website, www.consolejockey.com but don't expect much cuz one of the discharged I.T. guys sabotaged the site and it's down.
